155 pot plants found in residence

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

VAN LEAR – Kentucky State Police arrested a Johnson County man in relation to an indoor marijuana-growing operation Thursday.

KSP troopers and detectives, along with detectives from DE/SI East, confiscated plants with a street value of approximately $300,000, according to a KSP press release.

Larry D. Conley, 48, of Van Lear, is charged with cultivation of marijuana over five plants or more and trafficking in marijuana.

The press release said officials executed a search warrant in the Van Lear community Thursday in relation to an investigation conducted by Det. Adam Hall.

The investigation revealed an elaborate indoor grow operation with 155 marijuana plants growing inside with an approximate street value of $300,000.

Conley was taken into custody and is lodged in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center.

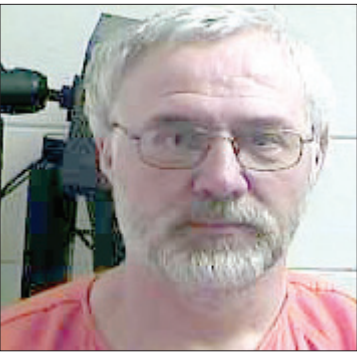

The incident remains under investigation by detectives from DE/SI East.

On the same day, as a continuation of ongoing investigations conducted by Hall, a search was executed by the KSP Post 9 Criminal Interdiction Team in the South Mayo Trail community of Pike County.

The search warrant resulted in the seizure of approximately 75 marijuana plants with an approximate street value of $150,000, the release said.

One arrest was made in relation to the investigation, but the person wasn't identified in the press release.

The case remains under investigation by KSP Trooper Zachary Bryson of the KSP Criminal Interdiction Team.

Lowmansville mobile home destroyed by Thursday fire

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

LOWMANVILLE – No injuries were reported in two separate residential fires in Lawrence County last week.

Everything was a total loss in a grease fire that destroyed a mobile home at Lowmansville Thursday afternoon.

Owners Rick and Beth Reed weren't home at the time of the fire, and their son, William, said his sister and her three children were also out when it happened.

William Reed said it was a grease fire and that he had left a pan on the stove and forgotten to turn it off.

Reed ran next door to the neighbor's house, wearing shorts, a T-shirt and socks, and called for help.

The neighbor said she hated that the fire happened and was concerned that the fire department wouldn't be able to extinguish the fire before it got to her property.

"They've lost everything, and I couldn't even find a pair of shoes that would fit him to put on," the neighbor said. "It's an awful thing to have happen, and I hate it for them."

Lowmansville Volunteer Fire Department quickly arrived on the scene, but the home was already fully engulfed in flames and the wind made it hard for firefighters to put out the blaze.

W.R. Castle Fire Department and both Louisa fire stations rendered mutual aid at the scene, but the home was a total loss.

Emergency Management Director Michael Woods, who was also on the scene, said that he wasn't sure but that maybe the Red Cross would help the family.

Woods issued a press release Friday morning of another fire that had taken place overnight in the Blaine community of Lawrence County.

Woods said in the release that his department along with the Blaine Volunteer Fire Department responded to a residential structure fire on Buffalo Branch Road at approximately 4 a.m. Friday morning.

"The fire was contained to the attic of the house and resulted in only minor damage due to it being extinguished quickly by members of the Blaine Fire Department," Woods said in the release. "Units cleared the scene a little after 5 a.m."

UPike plans optometry school

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — Calling it "yet another milestone for this institution," University of Pikeville president James Hurley announced last Wednesday, Feb.

26, that the school will add optometry to its growing list of degree programs.

UPike's Kentucky College of Optometry will be only the 22nd such school in the country and the only one in the southern states, Hurley said at a press conference announcing the project.

The school will bestow a four-year post-baccalaureate professional degree and will include 60 students per class for a total of 240 students.

The college is expected to

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — The vote-buying trial of the former mayor of Martin and four others scheduled to begin next week in federal court has been continued to May.

The continuance came just a few days after ex-Martin Mayor Ruth Thomasine Robinson and her daughter, Rita Christine Whicker, who formerly directed the Martin Community Center, were convicted in a Social Security fraud trial in U.S. District Court at Pikeville.

Robinson, 69, and Whicker, 42, were found guilty Tuesday night, Feb. 25, by a federal jury in a case that saw another defendant plead guilty prior to trial and charges dismissed against a fourth defendant.

Charges against city clerk Ethel Lee Clouse, 68, were dismissed Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 25, by federal prosecutors after they announced they had rested their case.

Another defendant, Ginger Michelle Halbert, 42, pleaded guilty Friday, Feb. 21, to three charges contained in an indictment returned last October.

As part of the plea agreement, prosecutors agreed that they would not seek charges against Halbert's son, Jeremy Pack, for "involvement, if any, as currently known to the

Program helps Paintsville man

PAINTSVILLE — Tommy Dial needed a change.

"I was trying to find something to do," said Dial, 44, who was paralyzed following a 1994 car accident. "I was restless and it got worse."

At the time of the accident, Dial was living in his native Adair County and working in a textile factory.

"I was married with two kids," Dial said. "I was coming home from work and the guy I was riding with overcorrected."

The accident damaged Dial's cervical 5 and cervical 6 disks and left him a quadriplegic.

"I had to get adjusted to being paralyzed," he said.

As Dial adapted to this drastic change in his circumstances, he also focused his attention on his family.

"I coached Little League football and was involved in my kids' lives," he said. "I enjoyed it and it was important to try to make their lives better, but I focused so much on them that I didn't focus on myself. Kids get older and pull away, which is good because you want them to grow up and become independent, but you have to have something for you."

Dial, who was divorced from his wife in 2006, decided to return to school. While making inquiries at Somerset Community College, he learned about the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Training Center in Thelma. He enrolled in the Perkins Center and lived on campus from 2009-12.

"I had to go through the program and take refresher courses to prepare myself for college," Dial said. "If you're lacking skills, let's say in LOUISA — Round two of the selection process for choosing astronauts for the Mars One Project to establish human life on Mars is scheduled to be completed by March 8, but a date has not been announced regarding rounds three and four.

A Lawrence County woman, Sheryl Wilhite, 39, is one of the 297 Americans selected to move into the second round.

Wilhite is the wife of Mack Wilhite, who works for the Lawrence County Sheriff's Office, and the couple has a 13-year old son.

The Mars One Project issued a press release Tuesday saying that it is partnering with Uwingu Mars Crater Naming Project, giving the public the opportunity to name approximately 500,000 scientifically identified craters on Mars by the end of 2014.

The goal of the project is to engage the audience in Mars exploration and to generate a new funding stream for private space related projects in the field of space exploration, space research or space education.

Mars One will utilize the soon-to-be-developed Uwingu Mars Map in all its missions and will land that map on Mars on its first unmanned Mars lander.

The audience can participate in Mars exploration through Uwingu by naming Mars craters, resulting in a Mars Map.

Mars One's human mission to Mars is one of the projects already supported by Uwingu.

"We're very enthusiastic about the partnership with Uwingu," Bas Lansdorp, Mars One Co-Founder and CEO, said. "Like Mars One, Uwingu gives everyone around the world the opportunity to participate in Mars exploration. The name you choose will go down in history, traveling to Mars on board our 2018 lander and will be used by our future astronauts. What an amazing opportunity!"

Everyone around the world can help name craters on Mars through Uwingu's Web site, www.uwingu.com.

Mars One will carry a digital copy of the resulting Mars Map on board its 2018 unmanned Mars Lander and will use the Uwingu crater names as part of Mars One mission operations.

Mars One is a not-for-profit foundation that plans to establish permanent human life on Mars.

More information about Mars One can be found at www.mars-one.com math, you have to build them back up."

Dial entered Big Sandy Community and Technical College, where he earned associate's degrees in science in computer-aided drafting and designing and civil engineering technology.

After graduation, he decided to remain in this area.

"I've met some of the best people in Eastern Kentucky. In my shape, if you move here, you've got to have awesome friends," he said. "I thought there would be more opportunities for me to find work in my field because of coal. With the coal mines shutting down, that didn't work out."

Dial, however, learned about Big Sandy Area Community Action Program's Workforce Investment Act (WIA), which provides employment services.

He attended the WIA's Job Club, which allows job seekers to share leads and networking opportunities with other people looking for employment. WIA career advisors, who facilitate Job Club, helped him hone his resume and practice his interview skills.

"During interviews, you get the same questions," Dial said. "They just change the words. You have to make sure you don't repeat the same answers. Thanks to the mock interviews, I was a lot more prepared and I didn't stumble through my answers."

"I'd recommend Job Club to anyone. Everything had changed so much. It had been 24 years since I had been looking for a job. These days to then it's just changed so much. I'm amazed at the difference. Online applications didn't exist back then."

Thanks to the work of career advisors Anita Lykens and Sandy Grimm, Dial found a job with Lowe's last November.

"I'm happy at Lowe's," he said. "I answer phones and try to screen calls. I look up prices and send the callers to different departments. The longer I've been there, the more questions I can field."

Grimm said she knew immediately that Dial would be successful in his job search.

"He's a good guy and I knew he was determined," Grimm says. "He knew he had something to offer and I knew he had something to offer."

"He's an inspiration for everyone. He said, 'I can answer phones. I can be of service to an employer.'"

Dial expresses gratitude to everyone who has helped him along his journey.

"It's hard for anybody to get a job," he said. "Just being out of work for 19 years and then you throw the chair in there...I'm grateful for anybody to hire me. It's a good work atmosphere and a good fit."

"Coming here to the Job Club did get me a job."

Job Clubs are sponsored by BSACAP, Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program and the Kentucky Career Center. For more information on Job Club, call (606) 789-3641.

OHIO — James E. "Jim" Maynard, 87, of Mansfield, passed away Sunday, Feb. 23, in Winchester Terrace Nursing Home, following an extended illness surrounded by his loving and devoted family.

The son of Wayne and Mallie (Lemaster) Maynard, Jim was born Dec. 31, 1926, in Louisa. At 17 years old, Jim moved to Mansfield and worked for Mansfield Tire and Rubber. Before serving in WWII, he met and began courting Lucille Martin, who was the cousin of Jim's co-worker. The two corresponded while Jim served as a paratrooper in the Army's 11th Airborne Division.

Following WWII and after his honorable discharge, Jim and Lucille were married in Kentucky on Dec. 14, 1946. Shortly after, in 1952, Jim and his family moved to Mansfield, where he returned to Mansfield Tire and Rubber. Jim later worked for A.K. Steel, where he retired in 1990. Wanting to remain busy, he also worked for Sprint, transporting vehicles from office to office.

Jim enjoyed hunting and fishing and had a wonderful knack for finding mushrooms. His secret location for mushroom hunting was close by, in northern Richland County. Meticulous and detailed, Jim always had a well manicured lawn. He took pride in the appearance of his property. Jim also enjoyed vegetable gardening.

A wonderful grandpa, and great grandpa, Jim often spoiled his grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

Her brothers-in-law, Joseph Perry and Roy Perry, and sister-in-law Edith Perry pre-deceased her. Her Perry nieces and nephews loved her and the brownies and oatmeal cookies she baked for them.

Lois was born in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, on Dec. 29, 1923, to William A. Pickering and Lois Wilson Pickering. She graduated from Roxboro High School in North Carolina in 1940, and from Louisburg College in 1941. She worked as a secretary, and those skills were quite useful throughout the years.

She married Ray Frederick Perry in May, 1946, and followed him wherever Procter and Gamble assigned them throughout the years. Along the way they had five children, four daughters and a son. They retired in 1979 and lived happily ever after on the family farm on the banks of Mill Creek in Wayne County, W.Va., for 34 years.

Lois and Ray were very active members of Nativity of Our Lord Catholic Church in Wayne, W. Va. from its inception in 1980. She was involved in many fundraising activities and helped prepare refreshments for the Nativity social get-togethers. She welcomed new members and showed her continued support through her cards. She served as a God-parent for Baptism candidates and as a Confirmation sponsor as well. She loved being with her family, reading, crafts, music and her God. She will be sorely missed by her family and friends.

A Celebration of Life service for Lois will be held Saturday, March 15 at Nativity of Our Lord Church, Wayne. In lieu of flowers, donations in her memory may be made to Hospice of Huntington, P.O. Box 464, Huntington, W.Va. 25709, or to any charity of your choice, under direction of Young Funeral Home, Inc., Louisa.

Carl Edmond "Gary" Mounts 1954-2014

WEST VIRGINIA — Carl Edmond "Gary" Mounts, 59, of Fort Gay, passed away Tuesday, Feb. 25 at Jewish Hospital, Louisville.

He was born Aug. 12, 1954, in Louisa, the son of the late Oliver and Effie Marie Crabtree Mounts. He worked at the Fort Gay Police Department, was a member of the Fort Gay City Council, a retired coal miner, and was the Pastor of Bear Creek Apostolic Church.

He was also preceded in death by three sisters, Delenna Anderson, Joyce Darlene Keene and Pearl Robertson; and a brother, Leroy Mounts.

Survivors include his loving wife, Orpha Marie Mounts of Fort Gay; four children, Keith Edward Mounts, Jeffery Allen Mounts, Michelle Lynn Workman and Carl Edmond Mounts Jr.; three sisters, Deanna Robertson and Deloris Frazier, both of Fort Gay, and Carolyn Sue Triplett of Louisa; six grandchildren, Ashley Michelle Mounts, Jeffery Allen Mounts, Jeremy Allen Mounts, all of Fort Gay, Summer Dawn Shepard, Haley Allison Shepard and Alexis Nicole Mounts, all of Louisa; lots of nieces and nephews, and a host of friends, too many to number. In his congregation, he will be missed by all.

Funeral services were 3 p.m., Saturday, March 1, at Young Funeral Home Chapel, with Bill Spriggs, and Jonathan Saumach officiating. Burial was in Thompson Cemetery, Fort Gay, under direction of Young Funeral Home, Inc., Louisa.

Welcome to my Big Data Dinner Party

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

"Good evening everyone. Thanks for coming over for dinner! I'd like to introduce my friend Joe.

"He's a Mets fan, drinks a little too much Miller Beer, is an inconsistent libertarian, and has been known to spend his evenings checking out his female coworkers' Facebook pages. Joe has high blood pressure and some disturbing PSA levels that just might indicate a prostate problem.

"And here's Carla. She likes HBO - a lot - drives a Chevy but dreams of an Audi, gets all her makeup from the discount counter at CVS, and is a secret smoker. She has a condo, waaay underwater, and visits a guy two buildings over in her complex rather late in the evening once or twice a week.

"And over here is Jack, who had a DWI last year and subscribes to HGTV magazine ..."

Well, that would be some dinner party, wouldn't it? I have a feeling a round of introductions like that would get things off on a bad foot.

But let's face it: All of that information - about Joe and Carla, me and you - is out there for the taking. Facebook is collecting information on what you look at, the better to target you for advertisers. Google is collecting your search history and your Internet provider has logs of your online travels.

Your credit card company knows what you buy. Even if you pay cash, your loyalty card records every purchase at the grocery or drugstore. All you have to do is use it in conjunction with a credit card one time to link up the data.

Your texts and emails, of course, are running through your phone company's servers, and even the prescriptions you buy are one data leak away from being public record - assuming your pharmacy or credit card company hasn't already inadvertently shared the information with data miners.

There's good news and bad news here. The bad news is that the horse is out of the barn.

The info that Big Data has on us is daunting, and a little bit scary. There is a complex network of folks who gather your data including stores, websites, credit card companies, Internet providers and online services like your email program. Then there are the companies whose names you've never heard of that combine it all into your own personal profile. Finally, there are the ad providers who take those recommendations and serve you up targeted ads.

And don't forget about any nosy government agencies snooping around and collecting data for their own use.

It's not a pretty picture. And you have to remember that most of what we do on the Web is free. This kind of advertising is the thing that's paying for the services we use. For better or worse, it's the world we live in, so it isn't going away.

The good news is that there are some steps you can take to minimize the risk. Here's what I do to sleep a little better at night.

1. Poke around in your browser preferences and make sure third-party cookies are disabled. Those are what advertisers use for tracking.

2. Change your birth date on Facebook. I would

Community Hospice offering volunteer orientation course

Community Hospice has scheduled a new volunteer orientation course.

The three-day session will be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 11-13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The sessions will be held at the Community Hospice office located at 1480 Carter Avenue, Ashland.

Although volunteers are needed for a variety of duties, there is a particular need for those interested in providing short in-home caregiver breaks, emotional support and visitation, nursing home visits, companionship and reading. Volunteers determine when and how often they are available to assist - a few hours a week or just occasionally. All volunteers must complete the required training to be certified.

Community Hospice currently has more than 200 active volunteers in its nine-county service area - Boyd, Greenup, Carter, Lawrence, Elliott, Martin and Johnson counties in Kentucky, along with Lawrence and Scioto counties, Ohio. If you are interested in becoming a Hospice volunteer or to reserve your space, contact LuAnn Vance, director of volunteers, at 606-329-1890 or 1-800-926-6184.

Hope's Place challenges law enforcement to participate in Basket Battle of the Badges

ASHLAND — Hope's Place Children's Advocacy Center, 1100 Greenup Ave., Ashland, is issuing a challenge to law enforcement agencies to participate in the 2014 Tri-State Basket Battle of the Badges to help collect Easter baskets for the upcoming Hope's Place 16th annual Chocolate Extravaganza, which will be Saturday, April 12, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., at the Ashland Town Center Hall.

There will be a variety of chocolate creations from vendors, and Easter and specialty baskets will also be available for purchase.

The department that collects the most Easter baskets through Wednesday, April 9, will be presented with the Basket Battle Trophy. The winning department will keep the trophy until next year's battle, and it will be presented by the department who collects the least. The losing department will also be wearing Easter Bunny ears when it presents the trophy.

For information, call 606-325-4737, or email brandi@hopes-place.org.

Severe Weather Preparedness Week runs through March 8th

FRANKFORT — Kentucky Emergency Management (KYEM), the Kentucky Weather

Preparedness Committee and the National Weather Service have teamed up to promote Severe Weather Awareness Week in Kentucky, which began March 2 and runs through March 8.

Severe Weather Preparedness Week encourages individuals, families, businesses and communities to know about severe weather risks and take action to prepare for them.

Each year, Kentuckians are killed or seriously injured by tornadoes and other types of severe weather, despite advance warning. In 2013, there were seven weather-related fatalities reported in Kentucky, five by drowning while driving through flooded roadways and two from lightning strikes.

Severe weather knows no boundaries and affects every individual in every region of the commonwealth. Emergency officials ask citizens to be aware, be prepared and have a plan.

"Knowing your risk, taking action and being an example are just a few steps you can take to be better prepared and assist in saving lives," said Mike Jones, interim director of KYEM.

"Preparedness means understanding that disasters can happen without notice, and taking necessary measures in advance is the simplest way to care for yourself and members of your family when severe weather strikes," said Buddy Rogers, chair of the Kentucky Weather

Preparedness Committee.

"Know your risks and have a plan in place," said John Gordon, Louisville National Weather Office meteorologist in charge. "Preparedness starts at home. It starts with being aware of conditions and situations that threaten you and your family's safety and then taking appropriate steps to mitigate those risks."

Swafford wins Floyd County Spelling Bee

PRESTONSBURG — Emily Swafford of Betsy Layne Elementary was the winner and Alivia Stumbo of McDowell Elementary was the runner-up of the 2014 Floyd County School District Spelling Bee.

The spelling bee was held Feb. 21 in the Gearheart Auditorium on the campus of Big Sandy Community and Technical College in Prestonsburg.

Swafford is the daughter of Jess and Charity Swafford of Betsy Layne. She will advance to compete in the Ford Motor Company Spelling Bee at the Kosair Shrine Club at Spalding University Ballroom in Louisville March 15.

Students competing in the district spelling bee were school champions from grades

4-8.

In addition to Swafford and Stumbo, school winners include Edward Smith, Adams Middle; Adam Philpot, Allen Elementary; Colin Ousley, Allen Central Middle; Kierra Kidd, Duff Elementary; Adam Hutchinson, May Valley Elementary; Christian Allen, Osborne Elementary; Samson Allen, Prestonsburg Elementary; Cameron Howell, South Floyd Middle; and Hannah Collett, Stumbo Elementary.

"Congratulations, Emily, and good luck at state," Floyd County school superintendent Henry Webb said in a press release. "These students did an amazing job representing their schools and the district. Emily and Alivia competed for 38 rounds."

KY students invited to submit artwork/essays in Gov.'s Mansion contest

FRANKFORT — Kentucky public, private and home school students are invited to submit original artwork and/or essays in the Governor's Mansion Centennial Visual Art and Essay Contest, sponsored by First Lady Jane Beshear, the Kentucky Governor's Mansion Centennial Committee and the Kentucky Department of Education.

The contest is part of a yearlong series of events celebrating the 100th anniversary of the current Kentucky Governor's Mansion, also known as the "People's House."

"The yearlong Centennial Celebration is an exceptional opportunity for Kentucky students of all ages to learn about the architectural, political and social history of the governor's mansion," said Beshear. "These contests are a perfect way to get students involved in the celebration, and winners will be honored at a special ceremony and have their works displayed at the mansion alongside historical centennial exhibits."

The visual art contest is open to students in grades K-12. Students may use any medium to create a two- or three-dimensional artwork that reflects one of the visual art contest's themes. First-, second- and third-place winners will be named for students in grades K-2, 3-5, 6-8 and 9-12. Students must submit digital images of their work for judging.

The essay contest is open to students in grades 4-12 who must choose one of three writing prompts for the theme of their essay. First-, second- and third-place winners will be selected at the following award levels: grades 4-6, 7-9, and 10-12.

First-place winners in each age group will receive a $100 prize, join the first lady for lunch at the mansion and have their work publicly displayed at the mansion. Prize-winning student artwork and essays will become sole property of the mansion as part of the mansion's permanent collection.

Complete contest information, rules, judging criteria and an official entry form are available online at <http://governorsmansion.ky.gov/centennial/contest/>. Only electronic entries submitted via e-mail will be accepted. The deadline for submissions is 11:59 p.m. on Friday, March 14. Questions may be directed to maryann.miller@education.ky.gov or rebecca.blessing@education.ky.gov.

WEEK: (Continued from A8)

The first step to becoming weather-ready is to understand the type of hazardous weather that can affect where you live and work, and how the weather could impact you and your family. Check the weather forecast regularly, get a NOAA Weather Radio, and sign up for localized alerts from emergency management officials. Severe weather comes in many forms and your shelter plan should include all types of local hazards.

Take steps to making sure that you and your family are prepared for severe weather. This includes developing a family communication plan, putting an emergency kit together, keeping important papers and valuables in a safe place.

Share your severe weather plan and preparedness actions with your family and friends. Many people use social media in the event of a disaster to let relatives and friends know they are safe, why not use it to prepare? People are most likely to take preparedness steps if they observe the preparations taken by others. Social media provides the perfect platform to model preparedness actions for others.

Gov. Steve Beshear has signed a proclamation naming March 2-8 as Severe Weather Awareness Week in Kentucky.

The proclamation, information on KYEM, additional resources and severe weather safety tips can be found at www.kyem.ky.gov. There you can also follow KYEM on Twitter and like us on Facebook.

Weather forecast, related links and additional weather preparedness information are also available at www.ready.gov and www.weather.gov.
